MANSHU MARU IS COMING

Three Or Four Schooners Lying In the River Preparatory To Loading At Local Mills and Several Big Vessels Almost Ready To Sail.

W. D. Jellison, who is vice-president of the Jellison & Comstock Lumber Company, of Rainier, was in the city yesterday. He was endeavoring to settle the affairs of the schooner Washington which has been attached by the Sheriff for a matter of $3000, and to arrange for a satisfactory bond. The first bond which he tendered was given by the Union Surety Company, of Portland, and this the Sheriff refused to accept, since he knew nothing about the company. However, a satisfactory bond will no doubt be arranged for within a few hours, and the Washington will probably get to sea today.

Later—At 12:20 this morning Sheriff Pomeroy returned from the Washington where he had been to release her and to relieve his deputy. The barge has now gone to sea, and a deverything is satisfactorily arranged.

Including the British steamship Hyndford, which sailed recently for the Far East with a full cargo of flour, four vessels will leave the river this month with cereal shipments. The Ascot is completing a cargo at local mills. The Maori King and the Gymeric will be in the early part of next week. The flour exports from the Columbia during the last month of the fiscal year give promise of being record breakers.

Much lumber will also be sent foreign during the month. The British ship Jordanhill is completing a cargo of fir for Callao, and will get away next week. The British steamship African Monarch, loading lumber at the Inman-Poulsen mill for Shanghai, will also sail next week with about 3,300,000 feet. Other ships are under charter to take out lumber cargoes to foreign ports and some of them may arrive in time to clear before the end of the season. One of these, the steamship Kalibia, sailed from San Francisco for the Columbia Thursday.

The Japanese steamship Manshu Maru, chartered to transport flour and lumber to the Orient, sailed from Manzanillo, Mexico, yesterday for the Columbia river. She will be here in about ten days, and loading will be rushed. An effort will be made to have her clear this month, in order to make the export showing of the year, which closes June 30, as great as possible.

The Manshu Maru will take on 40,000 barrels of flour and 500,000 feet of lumber, for Japan and China. Her cargo will be ready at the mills, and little time will be lost in putting it aboard. Lining will require fully a day, and only a week will be left to complete her cargo and get the craft ready for the sea. Should she make a slow trip up the Coast, the steamer will not be able to get away this month.

Fishermen from Puget Sound are departing daily for Oregon, so says a dispatch from Seattle, because higher prices are paid for salmon on the Columbia river than on Puget Sound. The fear of a light run of salmon on the Sound net month as also caused many to leave. Some of the men are taking their gasoline boats with them, and in one case a boat is being shipped direct to Astoria by rail.

The Telegraph went back at 2:30 yesterday and took with her her old steward, Mr. H. Stevens, who has recovered from his illness and is out of the hospital once more.

The Alliance left out yesterday for Coos Bay. She took with her nearly all the important witnesses in the shooting affray which took place on board in the morning.

The Lurline was down in fine time yesterday and after loading considerable freight and a number of passengers got away on her return trip by 7 o'clock.

The steam schooner Tiverton went to sea yesterday. She had on board 525,000 feet of lumber loaded at Rainier.

The four-masted schooner Virginia came down lumber laden and is waiting in the stream to be towed to sea.

The barkentine Chehalis has been towed over to Knappton where she will load lumber for the West Coast.

The three-masted schooner Fred E. Sanders came in from San Pedro and is up at the depot wharf.

The schooner J. H. Lunsman came up the river from San Pedro.

The oil tank Asuncion left out for San Francisco yesterday.

FIREMEN QUENCH RIOT.

HAMILTON, Ohio, June 14.—During a free-for-all fight here today firemen turned streams of water on the contestants and soon put them to rout. About 50 negroes and Hungarians clashed. The trouble started when a number of negroes tried to rob a Hungarian. Revolvers were drawn, clubs were freely used, and several were injured. The police were powerless. Then the fire companies were called out. Quickly they attached the hose and sent the water in streams on the fighters. It broke up the fight.
